SUBJECT: Amendments to Standards 2.2, 2.5, 2.6, 2.13, 2.15, 2.21 (Standards for Attorney Sanctions for Professional Misconduct) - Return From Public Comment and Request for Approval

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

At the September 2018 meeting, in Item III.A., the Regulation and Discipline Committee resolved to send out for a 60-day public comment period the proposed amendments to the Standards for Attorney Sanctions for Professional Misconduct. The close of public comment was November 16, 2018. During the initial public comment period, OCTC engaged in a series of meetings with representatives of the State Bar Court and the Association of Discipline Defense Counsel (ADDC). Over the approximately seven meetings between October and January, some of these proposals changed based on input from our discipline-system partners. As a result, at the January 2019 meeting, in Item III.C., OCTC requested that Standard 2.15 be circulated for public comment and that Standards 2.2, 2.5, 2.6, 2.13, and 2.21 be circulated for public comment again. The Regulation and Discipline Committee resolved to send out for public comment the proposed amendments to the Standards for Attorney Sanctions for Professional Misconduct. The close of public comment was March 17, 2019. No comments were received during the most recent 45-day public comment period. During the most recent public comment period, we continued our dialogue about the standards with the State Bar Court and the ADDC.

While this proposal is submitted by OCTC and the proposed changes are advocated by OCTC, much consideration was given to the opinions of the State Bar Court and the ADDC.

BACKGROUND

In 1985, the State Bar, through a collaborative effort between the State Bar Court and OCTC, developed proposed disciplinary standards which were adopted by the Board in November of 1985. On October 12, 2013, the Board approved a reorganization and revision of the rules and authorized the creation of a task force to study the Standards and recommend any changes to the Standards that were considered to be “major policy and philosophical shifts.” The changes recommended by the Task Force were adopted by the Board in May 2015 and became effective in July 2015.

Despite the relatively recent overhaul of the Standards for Attorney Sanctions for Professional Misconduct, the proposed change to Standards 2.2, 2.5, 2.6, 2.13, and the addition of Standard 2.21 are, in the view of OCTC, required because of the adoption of new Rules of Professional Conduct. The change to Standard 2.15 is required because of a change to Business and Professions Code section 6102. OCTC does not believe that the proposed changes rise to the level of a major policy change or philosophical shift.

DISCUSSION

This item proposes changes to eliminate the use of the term “member” and adopt the term “lawyer” or “licensee” in Standards 2.5, 2.6, and 2.13.

In addition, this item proposes other amendments to the Standards for Attorney Sanctions for Professional Misconduct.

1. Standard 2.2

The primary change to this standard is to incorporate the new requirement that attorneys place advanced fees in the client trust account. While case law for failure to deposit client funds or fiduciary funds into a client trust account has gone as low as a public reproof (See Dudugjian v. State Bar (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1092), depositing client funds, including advance fees, into an account other than a client trust account is essentially commingling (i.e., mixing client or entrusted funds with other funds) or worse, a misappropriation.

As a result, OCTC proposes changing Standard 2.2, which pertains to commingling, to apply to the failure to deposit funds received for a client, including advance fees, in a client trust account.

In our meetings with the ADDC and State Bar Court between October 2018 and January 2019, the ADDC expressed concern that the presumed sanction for commingling, actual suspension of three months, was more severe than the presumed sanction for misappropriation, actual suspension without a three month minimum suspension. However, this perceived incongruity exists in the standards as they are currently drafted and is not the product of OCTC’s proposed changes. We declined to address this issue because we believed that altering the Standard to eliminate the minimum period of actual suspension, or adding a longer minimum period of actual suspension to Standard 2.1, may represent a major policy shift that was beyond the scope of this item.

Prior to the January Board of Trustees meeting, discipline system partners also voiced a concern that placing failure to deposit advance fees into the client trust account in Standard 2.2 would result in a minimum 90-day suspension even where the deposit went into the wrong account as a result of mere negligence. However, the State Bar would not discipline an attorney for a merely negligent deposit into the wrong account. For example, if the attorney pulled the wrong deposit slip and deposited the funds into the firm operating account instead of the client trust account, but found the mistake and corrected it upon promptly reconciling his or her account statements, as required, the erroneous deposit would be deemed to be mere negligence. The attorney would not be prosecuted for that violation because attorneys are not generally subject to discipline for mere negligence. (In the Matter of Yagman (Review Dept. 1997) 3 Cal. State Bar Ct. Rptr. 788, 803.) If, however, the attorney fails to reconcile his or her accounts and does not discover the error, such conduct would be reckless or grossly negligent. Further, even when disciplined for depositing client funds into an account other than a client trust account, the standard creates only the presumed sanction, or the starting point of the analysis, and does not prevent the imposition of lesser discipline.

Following our discussions between October 2018 and January 2019 with the court and the ADDC, we altered our proposal to clarify that Standard 2.2(a) would not apply where there is evidence of misappropriation. If evidence of misappropriation exists, Standard 2.1 would be used.

Another proposed change merely substitutes the new rule number (1.15) for the old rule number (4-100). The new rule (rule 1.15 [Safekeeping Funds and Property of Clients and Other Persons]) also has additional requirements (e.g., the accounting must be in writing, etc.). Violations of these requirements appear to be adequately covered under Standard 2.2(b), so OCTC proposes to include them there. After consulting with the State Bar Court and the ADDC from October to January, we also sought to clarify which violations of the new rule would be subject to Standard 2.2(b).

No changes have been made to this proposed standard since it was sent out for public comment in January 2019.

2. Standard 2.5

The terminology and methodology of the new conflicts rules suggests that we need new language in the Standards. This proposal would align Standard 2.5(a) with violations of rule 1.7(a) [represent a client directly adverse to a concurrent client in the same or separate matter]; rule 1.7(b) [represent a client when there is a significant risk the lawyer's representation of the client will be materially limited by the lawyer's representation or responsibilities to another client or a former client, a third person, or the lawyer's own interest] and 1.7(d). Rule 1.7(d) prohibits certain conflicts even if there are waivers, for example, when a lawyer does not believe the lawyer is able to provide competent and diligent representation to each client; the representation is prohibited by law; or the representation involves the assertion of a claim by one client against another in the same litigation or other proceeding before a tribunal. (See also rule 1.10 [applying rule 1.7 to lawyers in firm with conflicted attorney].)

Proposed Standard 2.5(a) is also consistent with the Supreme Court's discussion of the most serious types of conflicts. (See People ex rel. Dept. of Corporations v. Speedee Oil Change Systems, Inc. (1999) 20 Cal.4th 1135, 1147 ["The most egregious conflict of interest is representation of clients whose interests are directly adverse in the same litigation."].)

Proposed paragraph (b) of Standard 2.5 covers rule 1.9(a), 1.9(b) and other conflicts that are materially adverse to former clients, especially those where confidential information may be used. (See also rules 1.10 [Imputation of Conflicts of Interest: General Rule] and 1.11 applying rule 1.9 to lawyers in firm with conflicted attorney or with government conflicts.) Paragraph (b) would apply to:

- New rule 1.9(a) - Representation of clients with interests that are materially adverse to the interests of former clients in the same or substantially related matters; and
- New rule 1.9(b) - Knowing representation of a client in the same or substantially related matters in which a firm with which the lawyer was formerly associated previously represented a client.

During our discussions initial series of discussions with the ADDC and the State Bar Court, both expressed concern that current clients should not be included in Standard 2.5(b) because rule 1.9 of the new Rules of Professional Conduct only applies to former clients. We do not disagree, but we were attempting to craft the rule to cover both violations of the new rule (1.9) and the former conflict rules. In order to address the concern of the ADDC, we created a subdivision (d) to cover violations of the former rules. We propose to order the paragraphs in this manner (i.e., paragraph (d) coming after the "catch-all" paragraph (c)) to avoid future confusion associated with reordering paragraphs. There is a potential for confusion because, in time, violations of the old rules will no longer be charged and paragraph (d) can be deleted. Placing that paragraph last avoids the need to reorder the paragraphs in the future.

Proposed new paragraph (c) of Standard 2.5 addresses all other conflicts and the breach of the common law duty of loyalty, e.g. aggregate settlements (rule 1.8.7), compensation from other than the client (rule 1.8.6), conflicts by former judges (1.8.12), conflicts involving prospective clients (1.18), and the common law duty of loyalty. (See Santa Clara County Counsel Attys Assn. v. Woodside (1994) 7 Cal.4th 525, 548.)

In our initial proposal, we included violations of rule 1.9(c) in Standard 2.5(c), however, following our initial series of discussions with the State Bar Court and the ADDC, we removed rule 1.9(c) because we agreed that it was more properly considered a breach of confidentiality under Standard 2.6.

No changes have been made to this proposed standard since it was sent out for public comment in January 2019.

3. Standard 2.6

Substantive changes include altering paragraphs (a) and (b) to cover rules 1.8.2 [Use of Current Client's Information] and 1.18(b) [Duties to Prospective Client]. Proposed new paragraph (c) would address new rule 4.4, which addresses an attorney's duties regarding inadvertently transmitted writings.

Following the October 2018 to January 2019 discussions with our discipline system partners, we removed "the magnitude of" from subdivisions (a) and (b) because it was unnecessary. We also abandoned the proposed addition of "unless the current, former, or prospective client gives informed consent" to Standard 2.6 subdivisions (a) and (b). This language is shown in ~~purple strikeouts~~ to show that we have removed it from the proposal, but to differentiate the deletion of this language from language that would be eliminated from the current standard as the result of adoption of the proposal.

No changes have been made to this proposed standard since it was sent out for public comment in January 2019.

4. Standard 2.13

Paragraph (a) of Standard 2.13 parallels parts of Business and Professions Code sections 6106.9(a)(1), 6106.9(a)(2), and old rule 3-120 and involve outrageous and overreaching conduct. The conduct in paragraph (a) is particularly egregious and probably involves moral turpitude. The OCTC proposal directly tracks the relevant language of Business and Professions Code section 6106.9.

The new rule, rule 1.8.10 [Sexual Relations with Current Client], prohibits all sex with clients except for spouses and people already in a relationship prior to the representation. Violations of Business and Professions Code section 6106.9 that do not fall within paragraph (a) are not as egregious. As a result, paragraph (b) applies to violations of rule 1.8.10 and Business and Professions Code section 6106.9 not covered by paragraph (a).

No changes have been made to this proposed standard since it was sent out for public comment in January 2019.

5. Standard 2.15

The proposed change to Standard 2.15 is not required by a change to the Rules of Professional Conduct. This proposed change is due to a change to Business and Professions Code 6102. Effective January 1, 2019 subdivision (c) of Business and Professions Code section 6102 has been amended to read:

After the judgment of conviction of an offense specified in subdivision (a) has become final or, irrespective of any subsequent order under Section 1203.4 of the Penal Code or similar statutory provision, an order granting probation has been made suspending the imposition of sentence, the Supreme Court shall summarily disbar the attorney if the offense is a felony under the laws of California, the United States, or any state or territory thereof, and either: (1) an element of the offense is the specific intent to deceive, defraud, steal, or make or suborn a false statement, or involved moral turpitude, or (2) the facts and circumstances of the offense involved moral turpitude.

The proposed changes to the standard reflect that summary disbarment is the actual sanction, instead of the presumed sanction, for such convictions. Further, we have proposed changes to the Standard so that it tracks the statute because the same sanction now applies to crimes where the facts and circumstances of the crime involve moral turpitude.

During the most recent public comment, OCTC engaged in further discussions with the State Bar Court and the ADDC regarding this proposal. As a result, we have modified the proposal slightly. The original Regulation and Discipline Committee agenda item (Item III.C. in January 2019) had blue underlines for insertions and ~~red strikeouts~~ for excised language. In this version, we have preserved the original blue underlines and ~~red strikeouts~~, but where we have added language as a result of our most recent discussions with discipline-system partners, we have flagged that with green underlines. The addition of the language clarifying that the conviction can be a felony under the laws of California, the United States, or any state or territory thereof is not a substantial change because Business and Professions Code 6102(c), to which Standard 2.15 applies, specifically includes felonies under the laws of California, the United States, or any state or territory thereof. The addition simply makes it explicit that the standard applies to non-California felonies as well. As a result, OCTC does not believe that an additional period of public comment is necessary.

6. NEW Standard 2.21

This proposed new Standard is to address violations of new rule 8.4(d). As this rule is similar to Business and Professions Code section 6106, which concerns acts involving moral turpitude, dishonesty, or corruption, the proposed new Standard calls for similar discipline. Nonetheless, the purpose of having a separate Standard was to allow the case law to develop separately and to minimize confusion.

During our initial discussions with the ADDC and the State Bar Court, the ADDC expressed concern about the definition of “prejudicial to the administration of justice.” Initially, we sought to allay their concerns by dividing the standard up into different subdivisions for intentional or reckless conduct versus aberrational and negligent conduct. However, after further internal discussion, we came to the conclusion that this approach is untenable because such distinctions do not exist in the underlying rule. Further, new rule 8.4(d) utilizes the phrase “prejudicial to the administration of justice” and we do not believe the Standards for Attorney Discipline for Professional Misconduct is the appropriate place to define phrases used in the rules. Instead, the Court should define the terms used in the rules in its decisional case law.

It is important to note that throughout the country, Rule 8.4(d) generally requires substantial harm or substantial potential harm and is intended to address moral turpitude-type conduct. As a result, we believe that this Standard, like 2.11, which applies to moral turpitude, warrants actual suspension to disbarment as the presumed discipline. However, the purpose of drafting a separate standard for Rule 8.4(d) is so that this Standard can be adjusted independently of Standard 2.11 as the case law develops.

No changes have been made to this proposed standard since it was sent out for public comment in September 2018.

[NEW] 2.21 CONDUCT PREJUDICIAL TO THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE

Disbarment or actual suspension is the presumed sanction for conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice in violation of rule 8.4(d). The degree of sanction depends on the magnitude of the misconduct, the extent to which the misconduct harmed the victim or the administration of justice, and the extent to which the misconduct related to the lawyer's practice of law.
